AFN to Host High-Level Forum on October 19

You are invited to join us for our next forum, Challenges at Our Northernmost Border: Leadership In Uncertain Times, on October 19, 2021, which aims to take stock of Alaska's current COVID-19 pandemic situation as well as the rapid and continuing situational change, and to address the critical decisions before us.

The forum will include an assessment of the impact of COVID-19 and future scenarios, updates on pandemic projections, economic growth, virus variants and potential future mutations, and a discussion of how we ultimately will determine that the pandemic is over. Further focus on what comes next will be a major theme of the forum, as will how and why leadership matters. Can we flatten the curve by working together?

Please click HERE to download the forum abstract.

When: October 19, 2021 (Virtual)

Please note that the AFN Forum is closed to the media. Members of the press should contact AFN Director of Communications Jeff Silverman with questions.

The White House and the National Security Council will host a tribal consultation on tribal and Arctic strategy on October 19 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Alaska Time, immediately prior to AFN's forum. More information on how to sign up for the White House consultation will be emailed to AFN members and tribal leaders. The White House will hold a similar consultation for Alaska Native corporation on October 21, 2021.

White House Announces Tribal Consultations on America the Beautiful Initiative

The White House Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) is holding two tribal consultations to garner input on the America the Beautiful initiative, particularly the focus area of supporting tribally led conservation and restoration priorities.

The Secretaries of the Interior, Agriculture, and Commerce, and the Chair of the CEQ issued the Conserving and Restoring America the Beautiful Report on May 6, 2021. The report provides a framework for how the U.S. can achieve national conservation goals, including conserving at least 30 percent of U.S. lands and waters by 2030. The report notes difficulty for Native communities to access federal funding and assistance to support conservation efforts and calls for improved engagement with American Indians, Alaska Natives, and Native Hawaiians on the care and management of public lands and waters, particularly regarding sacred and ceremonial sites, and trust and treaty rights.

Click HERE to read the 'Dear Tribal Leader Letter' for more information and specific questions CEQ is putting forward to garner input from Native communities. Below are the times and instructions for the two consultation sessions.

Tribal Consultation Option 1:

October 26, 2021

10:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m (EAT)

In addition to or, instead of joining these sessions, you may provide your written input to conservation@ceq.eop.gov by November 23rd, 2021. If you have any questions regarding this effort, please feel free to contact Stephenne Harding, Senior Director of Lands, at Stephenne.S.Harding@ceq.eop.gov, or at (202) 881-9419.

COVID-19 UPDATE

Widespread Virus Transmission Continues Across Alaska While Case Count Levels Off Slightly

By the end of the week of October 4-8, Alaska's daily COVID-19 case counts appeared to be slightly leveling off from prior weeks of steady case increases, according to the Anchorage Daily News. However, case counts remain far above last winter's peak, and on Friday, the number of COVID-positive patients hospitalized rose slightly while the state's percentage of positive tests hit an all-time high.

State health officials said this week that they were cautiously optimistic about the latest virus data trends, but there's still widespread virus transmission in the state and the pandemic is far from over.

By Friday, Alaska's average test positivity rate over the last week had reached a record high of 10.12%. That means about one in 10 COVID-19 tests performed came back positive. Epidemiologists say a rate above 5% can indicate widespread transmission in the community and a need for more testing.

For up-to-date information, visit the State of Alaska's COVID-19 page. You can download the Alaska Department of Health and Human Services "Reasons to Get Vaccinated Flyer" by clicking here.

Getting vaccinated remains the best defense against serious illness and death, health authorities say. The July report found unvaccinated Alaskans were 7 1/2 times as likely to be hospitalized as vaccinated people.

Misinformation about vaccinations and how well they work and the downplaying of the seriousness of COVID-19 continues to be a big factor in why so many Alaskans remain unvaccinated. There is a lot of misinformation out there, particularly on social media. Click here for CDC's helpful page for mythbusting. For facts, guidance, and data at the Alaska Department of Health and Social Services' main COVID page, click here.

YOU CAN TAKE ACTION – Choosing to get vaccinated is the single most important action you can take to protect yourself and your community and to reopen our economy. Check with your local health care provider to get the facts about vaccines, wearing masks and protecting your families. If you haven't been vaccinated yet, find a vaccine.

CDC's new guidelines on safer activities for you and your family:

- If you are fully vaccinated, you can participate in many of the activities that you did before the pandemic.
- To maximize protection from the Delta variant and prevent possibly spreading it to others, wear a mask indoors in public if you are in an area of substantial or high transmission.
- Wearing a mask is most important if you have a weakened immune system or if, because of your age or an underlying medical condition, you are at increased risk for severe disease, or if someone in your household has a weakened immune system, is at increased risk for severe disease, or is unvaccinated. If this applies to you or your household, you might choose to wear a mask regardless of the level of transmission in your area.
- You should continue to wear a mask where required by laws, rules, regulations, or local guidance.
- Learn more about the CDC's recommendations for fully vaccinated people at www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/vaccines/fully-vaccinated.html.

Biomedical visualization studio Visual Science has created the most detailed and scientifically accurate 3D model of the SARS-CoV-2 virus at atomic resolution. The model is based on the latest scientific research into the structure of coronaviruses, as well as input from expert virologists involved in the research. This is the most accurate model of the SARS-CoV-2 viral particle currently available. To produce it, Visual Science employed the same techniques of structural bioinformatics used in basic research and drug development. <https://visual-science.com/projects/sars-cov-2/animation/>
